The Mistaken Plate

Two merchants travelled together and sold things made of brass and tin. One was greedy and the other one was a good merchant. One day, they went to a town to sell things. They moved to two different streets.

A woman and her granddaughter lived in a small house. The greedy merchant went to that street. The granddaughter wanted to buy utensils from the merchant. But the woman had no money. They only had an old plate. She had it in the memory of her husband.

Greedy Merchant : Brass utensils for sale!!! Tin utensils for sale!!!

Granddaughter : We shall buy something Ammama.

Ammama : We do not have money to buy anything.

Granddaughter : We can ask the merchant to take the plate and give us something.
